STAY WITH OPTIONAL EXCURSIONS FOR GROUPS IN SPLIT OR ON THE MAKARSKA RIVIERA – IN THE HEART OF THE CROATIAN COAST – 2027

8 days / 7 nights (or 4 days / 3 nights)

INTRODUCTION

The long-standing importance of the Adriatic Sea as a trade route connecting Europe with Asia Minor until the 17th century is reflected in the rich history and heritage of Croatia's coastal towns. With one of the highest concentrations of islands in the world, the Croatian coastline offered ships a sheltered route, allowing them to sail close to shore and avoid the open sea. As a result, many Croatian towns trace their origins back to antiquity, with Split being one of the most remarkable examples. The origins of Split lie in the construction of a palace for the Roman Emperor Diocletian. Over the centuries, this Roman palace underwent continuous transformation, with each historical period leaving its mark and contributing to a fascinating blend of architectural styles. Today, it forms the heart of Croatia's second-largest city and its second-largest port. Its paradoxical state of preservation has earned it a place as a UNESCO World Heritage site. Above all, Split is a unique kind of monument: it is a living one! Split is the second-largest city in Croatia and the heart of Dalmatia, the country's southern coastal region. Its inhabitants have a distinct temperament and enjoy showing themselves off. The women of Split are reputed to be the most beautiful in the country! We invite you to join them for a shopping stroll through the pedestrian streets of the city centre, while keeping an eye out for their mothers, who are a formidable presence at the city's bustling market square. This very lively city hosts numerous festivals and concerts throughout the year.

Its commercial history is reflected in the rich architecture of its palaces and its cathedral, which features a portal that was revolutionary for its time. Part of the old town's charm lies in getting lost within its maze of medieval alleyways, where the past coexists with the present. ALL-INCLUSIVE STAY WITH OPTIONAL EXCURSIONS ON THE MAKARSKA RIVIERA

Dates: April to October 2027
Number of participants: 20–49
Duration: 8 days / 7 nights
Package: All-inclusive stay on the Makarska Riviera (Split – Split)

INTRODUCTION

Croatia is striking at first glance for its unusual shape. The arc-like form of the country is rooted in its history and a unique set of circumstances that contribute to the richness and diversity of present-day Croatia. The nation combines an extensive coastline—featuring one of the world's densest concentrations of islands, shaped by a Mediterranean context—with the continental Pannonian plains, which are closely linked to the plains of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire. These two distinct landscapes are defined by the Julian Alps to the north and the Dinaric mountain ranges, which stretch all the way down to Greece. Whether along the coast or across the plains, Croatians have always been a nation of traders, benefiting from their strategic position at the crossroads of numerous trade routes, many of which date back to Antiquity and even earlier. Roman heritage is particularly evident in the city of Split, where the historic city centre lies within the walls of Emperor Diocletian's Palace. Over the centuries, the palace has evolved and transformed, becoming a fascinating blend of architectural styles in a constant state of renewal.

The country's tumultuous medieval past is reflected in the Venetian influences along the coast, seen in towns like Hvar and Šibenik and in the Austrian influences found further inland. Croatia's strategic location and wealth have long made it an object of desire for others. The full spectrum of the nation's joy and melancholy is captured in its highly original "naïve" art—typical of the plains, as well as in the exquisite craftsmanship of Dalmatian stonemasons, who reached such heights that they sparked genuine artistic revolutions, most notably with the Cathedral of Šibenik, created by George the Dalmatian.

Amidst this coming and going, the small Republic of Dubrovnik developed into an extraordinary city-state, imbued with a distinctive style of art and architecture, while jealously guarding its freedom through exceptional diplomacy.
Bosnia and Herzegovina is a world apart, with a surprising blend of cultures. This is why the Mostar bridge is known as "the link between East and West."
Traveling through Croatia means discovering a vast array of landscapes and regions that constantly shift, each harboring distinct, robust identities shaped by the many influences that have left their mark. This journey will take you on a voyage of discovery to natural gems, from the islands of Hvar, Brač and Korčula to the inland plateaus and the spectacular Krka River National Park. Such richness also delights the palate, revealing an enticing diversity of local culinary specialities.
From the Mediterranean scents of the sea to the soothing sounds of cascading waterfalls… an unforgettable feast for all the senses!

Meeting with your local English-speaking guide in front of the hotel.
Transportation by 49-seater tourist bus, reserved for the group.

Drive to Gata. Travel time: 1 hour 30 minutes.
Presentation and tasting of soparnik.

In ancient times, the area between the Cetina and Žrnovnica rivers was home to the Republic of Poljica, an autonomous and democratic republic. Its inhabitants, who valued simplicity and the gifts of nature, created soparnik, a thin savoury pie filled with Swiss chard and garlic, traditionally baked over an open fire found in every household.Once reserved for special occasions, this traditional dish gradually became a true symbol of the region. Today, Poljica soparnik is recognised as part of Croatia's intangible cultural heritage and holds Protected Geographical Indication status. In the authentic setting of the village of Gata, you will have the opportunity to participate in the preparation of soparnik during a presentation lasting approximately 30 minutes. Afterwards, you will enjoy a tasting of soparnik and fritters, accompanied by an aperitif and a glass of wine, juice or water. You will also receive the recipe as a souvenir to take home.

*Next, you will descend into the impressive canyon of the Cetina River for lunch at Kaštil Slanica, a former defensive tower converted into a restaurant. Here, you will discover the traditional peka cooking method -"under the bell" (peka). Veal and chicken, together with potatoes seasoned with aromatic herbs, are placed in a dish over a bed of glowing embers. The dish is then covered with a metal, bell-shaped lid, which is topped with more hot embers. The food cooks for about three hours, resulting in a crispy on the outside and a tender, melt-in-your-mouth on the inside. Paired with some local wines, it is a true delight!*

Menu

Main course: Veal and chicken with potatoes, cooked under a bell cover + fresh seasonal salad
Dessert : cake of the day
Unlimited drinks package for 2 hours (house wines, beer, juice, soft drinks, or water)
